

“ClicData has been a huge time saver for us. We have already created over 70 dashboards and each person knows exactly how they are making an impact. As we find new questions to be answered, we can create new dashboards quickly and share critical information in a clear, concise manner with the appropriate team members.”

Karn Jilek
Director of Operations

Making everyone accountable

As a small company, early indicators of success or issues are critical to our ability to respond. We track a wide variety of metrics from overall productivity to goal vs. actual, job costs and much more. All of this work is done in spreadsheets, which are cumbersome and it is difficult to quickly pull out key metrics or spot trends. ClicData’s dashboards enable us to quickly analyze results to provide relevant, actionable feedback to our team members. Everyone now knows what they are accountable to, how they are performing and how they can impact the results. These tools have enabled us to focus on the most important metrics and have a clear, early vision of trends so that we can take action when needed.
